Common Content:

Read the following passage and answer the questions given below.
Since the late 1970s when the technology for sex determination first came into being, sex selective abortion has unleashed a saga of horror. Experts are calling it ‘Sanitised Barbarism’. Demographic trends indicate the country is fast heading towards a million foetuses aborted each year.

Although foetal sex determination and sex selection is an offence in India, the practice is rampant. Private clinics with ultrasound machines are doing brisk business. Everywhere, people are paying to know the sex of the unborn child, and paying more to abort the female child. The technology has reached even remote places through mobile clinics. Dr. Puneet Bedi obstetrician and specialist in foetal medicine, says these days he hardly sees a family with two daughters. People are getting the sex determination even for the first child, he says.

The 1991 census showed that two districts had a child sex ratio (number of girls per thousand boys) less than 850; by 2001 it was 51 districts. Child rights activist Dr. Sabu George says foeticide is the most extreme form of violence against women. "Today a girl is several times more likely to be eliminated before birth than die of various causes during the first year. Nature intended the womb to be a safe space. Today doctors have made it the most unsafe space for the female child," he says. He believes that doctors must be held responsible – “They have aggressively promoted the misuse of technology and legitimised foeticide.”

Akhila Sivadas, Centre for Advocacy and Research, Delhi, feels that the PCPNDT Act (Pre-Conception and Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques – Regulation and Prevention of Misuse) is very well conceived and easy to use. The need of the hour is the legal literacy to ensure the law is implemented. “The demand and supply debate has been going on for some time. Doctors say there is a social demand and they are fulfilling it. They argue that social attitudes must change. However, in this case supply fuels demand. Technology will have to be regulated. Technology in the hands of greedy, vested interests cannot be neutral. There is a law to prevent misuse and we must be able to use it,” she says.

On the ‘Demand’ side, experts such as Dr. Agnihotri argue that women’s participation in workforce, having disposable incomes and making a contribution to the larger society will make a difference to how women are seen. Youth icons and role models such as Sania Mirza are making an impact, he says.

Others feel there needs to be widespread visible contempt and anger in society against this ‘Genocide’- “the kind we saw against the Nithari killings,” says Dr. Bedi. “Today nobody can say that female foeticide is not their problem.” Time we all did our bit to help save the girl child. Time’s running out.
